

Contributors

Alex Ojacor, PhD, is Professor of Religion and Research Method in Religious Studies at Makerere University, Kampala, Uganda. He is also a professor of theology in the Faculty of Theology, National Seminary, Kampala, Uganda. He is the founder and Director of the Children's Educational and Welfare Foundation (Uganda), and a member of the Ugandan Joint Christian Council and the Doctrinal Commission of Uganda Episcopal Conference and the National Spiritual Director of the Uganda Catholic Charismatic Renewal.

Bekeh Ukelina Utietiang is a native of Nigeria. He is a priest of the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston, West Virginia. Bekeh has a bachelor's degree in Philosophy from the University of Ibadan, Nigeria and a graduate degree in Religion and Culture from The Catholic University of America, Washington DC. He is the author of three books including, Afridentity: Essays on Africa; he writes regularly on Religion, politics, and culture for different news media in the United States. Rev. Bekeh is currently the President of Africa Reads Books Inc. and the associate Pastor of St. Margaret Mary Church, Parkersburg, West Virginia.

Ebere Bosco Amakwe, HFSN, is a Nigerian nun and an expert in gender studies. She earned her doctorate on social communication from the Pontifical Gregorian University, Rome. Until recently, she worked as webmaster of www.vidimusdominum.org—a site belonging to the International Union of Superiors General (UISG–women) and Union of Superiors General (USG–men), Rome. Also she was an assistant manager and network administrator of Greenstone website at the Salesian International News Agency, Rome. Sister Amakwe is the author of The Factors Influencing the Mobility of Women to Leadership and Management Positions in Media Industries in Nigeria, and has published many articles on women and the media in Africa. She is an assistant professor in the Department of Communication at Seton Hall University, New Jersey, USA.

Contributors

Emeka Xris Obiezu, OSA, who holds a PhD from University of St Michael's College, Toronto, after studying political theology at Regis College, University of Toronto, is the Permanent Representative of the Order of St. Augustine's NGO at the United Nations. He is a researcher on the intersection of theology and social sciences; the Roman Catholic Church's relations with International Organizations especially the UN; social justice; current dynamics of globalization; religion and violence; and international development discourse. He is the author of Towards a Politics of Compassion: Socio-political Dimensions of Christian Responses to Suffering.

Joseph Ogbonnaya, a Nigerian priest, holds three masters degrees in theology, philosophy, and philosophical theology. He earned his doctorate in theology from St. Michael's College in the University of Toronto. He is a scholar at the Lonergan Research Institute, Toronto. He is a member of the Association of Christian Therapists and Canadian Association for the Study of International Development. Pastorally, he serves the Igbo (Nigerian) Catholic community in Toronto and also works as a hospital chaplain at Sunnybrook Health Sciences Centre, Toronto, Canada. He is widely published and is a highly sought after speaker on African development, spiritual wholeness and health among others.

Stan Chu Ilo, PhD, E.ED (cand) is Assistant Professor of Religion and Education, University of St. Michael's College in the University of Toronto, Canada. He is the founder and director of Canadian Samaritans for Africa, and the publisher of the online journal of African theology and social justice theologyinafrica.com. He is the author of The Face of Africa: Looking Beyond the Shadows, and Aid and Development in Africa and the Role of Churches and Christian Charities in Africa's Social Context: A Creative Appropriation of Catholic Social Ethics.