

Contributors

ANDREW BURGESS, Vicar of All Saints Anglican Parish, Nelson, New Zealand, and Lecturer in Systematic Theology at Bishopdale Theological College. His publications include The Ascension in Karl Barth (Ashgate, 2004).

IVOR J. DAVIDSON, Professor of Systematic and Historical Theology and Head of the School of Divinity at the University of St. Andrews, Scotland. His publications include Ambrose: De Officiis, edited with an introduction, translation, and commentary (Oxford University Press, 2002); and numerous other studies in patristics and modern theology. He is a series editor for T. & T. Clark's Studies in Systematic Theology Monograph Series.

ANTONY GLADING, Pastor of Otahuhu Baptist Church, Auckland, New Zealand. He is completing an MTh from Laidlaw-Carey Graduate School with a thesis entitled "The Meaning and Significance of Jesus Christ as the Subject of Election in Karl Barth's Church Dogmatics."

MYK HABETS, Lecturer in Systematic Theology, and Director of the R. J. Thompson Centre for Theological Studies, Carey Baptist College and Graduate School, Auckland, New Zealand. His publications include: Theosis in the Theology of Thomas Torrance (Ashgate, 2009), The Anointed Son (Pickwick, 2010), and The Spirit of Truth, editor (Pickwick, 2010). He is currently working on a series of edited books to do with Calvinism, gender, culture, and the filioque.

NICOLA HOGGARD-CREEGAN, Senior Lecturer in Systematic Theology at Laidlaw College and Graduate School, Auckland, New Zealand. She chairs a Local Society Initiative in theology and the natural sciences (TANSA), and writes a column on science and faith issues for the NZ journal Stimulus. Her publications include Evangelicalism and Feminism: Living on the Boundary (IVP, 2005), with Christine Pohl, and a forthcoming work entitled Animal Suffering and the Problem of Evil (Macmillan).

ULRIKE LINK-WIECZOREK, Professor of Systematic Theology, Institute of Evangelical Theology and Religious Education, Carl von Ossietzky University, Oldenburg, Germany. Her publications include Reden von Gott in Afrika und Asien (1991), Inkarnation oder Inspiration? Christologische Grundfragen in der Diskussion mit britischer anglikanischer Theologie (1998), and Profilierte Ökumene. Bleibend Wichtiges und jetzt Dringliches, FS für Dietrich Ritschl zum 80, edited with Fernando Enns and Martin Hailer (2009).

BRUCE L. MCCORMACK, Charles Hodge Professor of Systematic Theology, Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton, NJ. His publications include Karl Barth's Critically Realistic Dialectical Theology: Its Genesis and Development, 1909–1936 (Clarendon, 1995) and Orthodox and Modern: Studies in the Theology of Karl Barth (Baker Academic, 2008).

JOHN C. McDOWELL, Morpeth Professor of Theology at the University of Newcastle. He is the author of Hope in Barth's Eschatology (Ashgate, 2000) and The Gospel according to Star Wars (Westminster John Knox, 2007), and the co-editor of Conversing with Barth (Ashgate, 2004). He has authored numerous articles on Barth—on the doctrine of election, hope, the theological relation to Brünner, das nichtige, and wickedness, natural theology, political agency, and prayer—in academic journals such as Modern Theology, Scottish Journal of Systematic Theology, and International Journal of Theology. Among other things, he is presently writing two books on Barth—Barth as a conversational theologian, and Barth's account of prayer as shaping political agency.

ADAM MCINTOSH, Minister of the South Ballarat Uniting Church, Victoria, Australia. He has published articles on theology in journals such as Pacifica on topics including trinitarian theology, ecclesiology, and theology of human and animal relations.

PAUL D. MOLNAR, Professor of Systematic Theology, Department of Theology and Religious Studies, St. John's University, New York. His publications include numerous articles in professional journals and Divine Freedom and the Doctrine of the Immanent Trinity: In Dialogue with Karl Barth and Contemporary Theology (T. & T. Clark, 2002); and Thomas F. Torrance: Theologian of the Trinity (Ashgate, 2009).

ASHLEY J. MOYSE, PhD student at the University of Newcastle, Australia. His research, under the supervision of John C. McDowell, focuses on the intersection of theology and medicine with particular interest in Karl Barth's theological anthropology. He is also a Sessional Instructor in the Faculty of Science, the University of the Fraser Valley, BC, Canada, where he teaches courses in human anatomy and physiology, applied physiology, and health ethics.

BENJAMIN MYERS, Lecturer in Systematic Theology, Charles Sturt University School of Theology, Sydney, Australia. He is author of Milton's Theology of Freedom (de Gruyter, 2006), a forthcoming book on the theology of Rowan Williams (T. & T. Clark), and many journal articles on modern theology.

HAYDN D. NELSON, Lecturer in Theological Ethics and Apologetics, Vose Seminary, and Executive Minister, Riverview Church, in Perth, Western Australia. His publications include "A Trinitarian Perspective on the Destiny of the Unevangelised," in Text and Task: Scripture and Mission, edited by Michael Parsons (Paternoster, 2006), and The Problem of the Providence of God: How Can a God outside This World Also Be Present in It? (Edwin Mellen, 2010).

ANDREW NICOL, PhD student at the University of Otago, Dunedin, New Zealand. His research evaluates the identification and significance of the "God of Israel" in Robert W. Jenson's theology. He was previously Head of Religious Studies at St. Bede's Prep School, East Sussex, England.

MURRAY A. RAE, Associate Professor of Theology at the University of Otago, Dunedin, New Zealand. His publications include History and Hermeneutics (T. & T. Clark, 2005), The Person of Christ, edited with Stephen R. Holmes (T. & T. Clark, 2005), Kierkegaard's Vision of the Incarnation: By Faith Transformed (Clarendon Press, 1997), and The Practice of Theology: A Reader, edited with Colin E. Gunton and Stephen R. Holmes (SCM, 2001).

PHILLIP TOLLIDAY teaches Anglican Studies and Systematic Theology, St. Barnabas' College, School of Theology, Flinders University. His publications include work on Paul Tillich, Augustine, Jean-Luc Marion, the trinitarian doctrine of God, and philosophical-theological aspects of forgiveness. He has been co-editor of Dialogue Australasia, and is currently the series co-editor for volumes on the interface between philosophy and theology, which is a joint project between ATF Press and the Department of Modern Languages and Cultures at Hong Kong University.

JOHN B. WEBSTER, Professor of Systematic Theology, the University of Aberdeen, Scotland. He has written a number of books on Barth, including Barth's Ethics of Reconciliation (Cambridge University Press, 1995) and Barth's Earlier Theology (T. & T. Clark, 2004).